MAPPING COUNTY BY AIRPLANE SIMPLE TASK

Gas Company Has Aero Engineers Working in Western End of Gouuty

TO USE POWERFUL CAMERAS

Something new in the way of map making on the part of companies who desire accurate reproductions of lands and leases is now coming in to vogue as an indirect result of the war and the great stimulation given to aeronautics and photography. Walter M. Jakaway, aerial photographer, and Earl F. Beers, chief pilot, of the Rochester Aircraft corporation, of Rochester, N. Y., arrived in DuBois yesterday and at once began hauling their aeroplane to the aviation field. As the several loads passed along the main streets, much curiosity was expressed as to the purvose of the plane being shipped to DuBois. The two young men, with the aid of local mechanics, will assemble the plane and within a few days will began making aerial photographs. The photographs are being made for the Phillips Gas & Oil comvany, which holds a large number of leases in Clearfield and surrounding counties. There is a total of 625 square miles to be covered in the contract held by the aircraft company and a large part of the work will be done with DuBois as the central station. The aerial work will include photo-taking in Clearfield, Jecerson, Indiana and Cambria counties. Most of the work done in Clearfield and Jefferson counoies will be done with DuBois as headquarters, a the aviators have the use of a good field here.

It is claimed that by aerial photographs, which are taken at a height of 4,000 feet a most complete and accurate map of the country can be secured. In fact every detail is covered in a manner far superior to a hand-drawn map. The aeroplane travels in a serpentine trail over a certain area and at each exposure a strip of territory 1600 to 2000 feet is taken. These photographs overlap and when put together given an absolute perfect reproduction of the territory. That tney are accurate there is no question. It is even stated that should a man walk over his lawn after the dew had settled and a photograph was made before the dew had dried, that the man's tracks in the dew would be shown in the photograph.

The company has sent to DuBois a Curtis plane of the JN-4 type with a 90-horse power engine. The pilot, Mr. Beers, has been in the flying game for fifteen years and is rated as one of the best in the business. It is the intention of the men to do a passenger business between photographic flights, arrangements for which can be made as soon as the machine is assembled. Mr. Jakaway, the photographer is well acquainted with Phil Griesemer having been under him at the Rochester school during the war.

The taking of aerial photographs for the purpose of mapping territory has been carried on by one Rochester company for some little time and they have been meeting with good success.

MUSIC LOVERS HAD A TREAT LAST NIGHT

Mr. Ballard, the Noted Tenor, Pleased Large Audience With His Performance

EDISON MACHINE IS PERFECT

The music lovers of Clearfield who availed themselves of the invitation to attend the concert by George Ballard at the High School Auditorium last evening, will never forget the experience.

When Mr. Ballard announced that he would sing in unison with a RE-CREATION of his own voice, on the New Edison which stood upon the platform, we were skeptical. To attempt to match that lovely voice with a sound produced mechanically by a thing of steel and wood! It was preposterous.

When the first notes of the song came to our ears we were waiting breathlessly. And we continued breathless throughout the evening. At first Mr. Ballard's voice and the voice from the mahogany cabinet beside him came to us indistinguishably blended—the two voices so completely one that no ear could detect their duality. Suddenly we realized that Mr. Ballard's lips had ceased to move, though his voice went gloriously on! He sang again, and again stopped. Only by watching his lips could we tell whether his voice came to us from his throat, or from the magic box at his side. It was his voice in both cases—there was no question of that from the first. No mere echo or "record" could make us doubt the evidence of our own eyes. His voice was there, whether he sang or was silent. Equal in tone, in clearness and in beauty, it filled the room, literally RE-CREATED by some magic power for our bewilderment.

Music such as Mr. Edison has given to the world, is especially gratifying and inspiring and i tis interesting to know that several thousand New Edisons, especially encased in double field cabinets, were furnished to the boys in camp and "over there" without profit by Mr. Edison.

Expect Senate Vote On Shantung Tonight

Party Leaders Marshal Forces in Preparation For Test of Strength On Treaty Entire

JAPAN'S CLAIMS ARE DISPUTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Leaders of both parties in the Senate expect a vote this evening on the Shantung amendment to the Treaty of Peace This amendment would alter the treaty, and would change the clauses relating to Shantung so as to restore that province to China instead of giving Japan the German mining and railroad concessions in it.

SECRETARY WILSON HAS PLAN FOR SETTLEMENT OF MINERS' DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Hoping to avert the threatened coal strike by an agreement between the miners and the operators, Secretary of Labor Wilson today prepared a plan of settlement to be submitted to representatives of both sides.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—There will be an industrial panic throughout the United States unless the coal strike is averted November 1, government experts announced today.

Most of the country will feel the strike before a month is up and if cold weather sets in, two weeks will be the minimum time in which the public would feel the strike.

C. W. Lesher, government expert, estimated the present production at 11,000,000 to 11,500,000 tons during a week. There are on hand about 30,000,000. This probably would last a month. Coal held in reserve by the railroads is variously estimated. Figures submitted to the Senate recently showed a ten day's supply on hand. Other figures also given the Senate showed a month's supply.

Because of the unequal distribution of coal many sections of the country would be hit by the strike within a week.

LIEUT. MAYNARD, LEADER IN AERIAT AERBY, FINALLY FORCED TO LAND

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 16—Lieut.B. W. Maynard was forced down by a broken crank shaft, 4 miles west of Wahoo, Neb., according to reports received here today. Maynard was unhurt. Army trucks went to his assistance.

LINCOLN, Neb, Oct. 16—Lieut. B. Maynard, leader of the trans-continental aerial derby left here at 7:15 for Mineola. Maynard made three miles a minute in his flight between Cheynne and Lincoln. He hoped to reach his goal Friday night.

PRESIDENT CONTINUES BETTER AND IS NOT SUBJECT TO AS MUCH PAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—A statement issued by President Wilson's physician at 11:55 a m. today said "the discomfort which the President has suffered during the past two days has been relieved to a very great extent. He had a good night. His temperature, pulse, and respiration continued normal."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—President Wilson was better this morning, it was stated at the White House. A cabinet meeting will be called today, Secretary Tumulty said, to consider the sugar shortage and the impending coal miner's strike. The sugar shortage was referred to Secretary of Agriculture Houston and the miner's strike to Secretary of Labor Wilson.

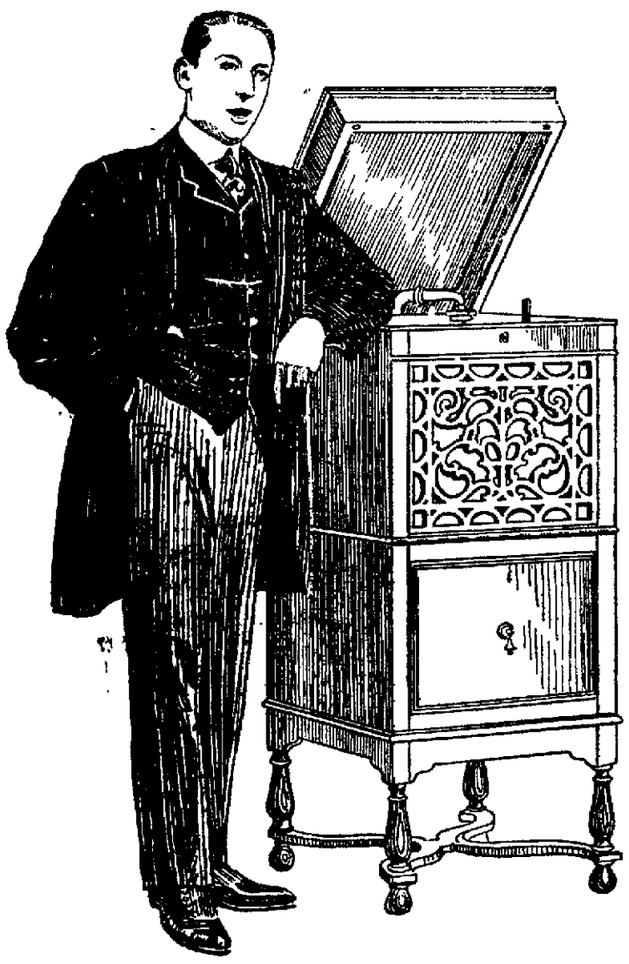
---and no one could tell the difference



Last night's audience mystified

Tries vainly to detect difference between voice of famous tenor and RE-CREATION by Edison's new phonograph

Those present at The High School Auditorium last night saw George Wilton Ballard walk onto the stage. They saw him take his position next to a beautiful cabinet. They saw his lips give voice to the opening lines of Mother. Then suddenly his lips were still---but the songs kept flowing on.

How came this? They were hearing Mr. Ballard's voice, yet Mr. Ballard was not singing. The entire audience gasped as it slowly realized that it had been unable to distinguish between Mr. Ballard's voice and the RE-CREATION of that voice by the New Edison.

This was the daring test undertaken last night at the High School Auditorium by Thomas A. Edison. He sought to prove that no difference exists between the voice of the living artist and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. The musically cultured of Clearfield were invited to pass judgment. No test could have been more exacting.

Mr. Ballard made comparison after comparison. The mystified audience tried vainly to catch a difference between the original rendition and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one could tell one from the other.

It was a triumph whole and complete for the New Edison.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The instrument used in last night's Tone-Test is the regular model which sells for $285 (in Canada, $431.) It is an exact duplicate of the Laboratory Model which Mr. Edison perfected after spending Three Million Dollars in experiments.

The New Edison alone of all phonographs is capable of sustaining this test. Until Mr. Edison knew it would do so, he regarded his work as unfinished.

Ask some one who was present last night. Learn the amazing truth. Then come in and let us prove it personally to you.

In Dubious Garb

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Dear, dear!" mourned and pitied Alvin Prince, and stood looking down at a human form lying prone upon the straw-littered floor of an abandoned shelter shed at a remote corner of his farm.

He was a genial old soul, this pleasant-faced, kind-hearted deacon, selectman and the prop and stay of sterling uprightness and dignity in the community. He had been passing the shed, when he fancied that a groan proceeded from within. He stepped across the threshold and, startled and puzzled, gazed down at the recumbent figure. It was that of a young man with a refined cast of features, his eyes closed in sleep. Two further discoveries of the farmer brought a serious expression to his face. One hand was abrased and bleeding, and a cut in the head showed a second recent injury.

"A convict—an escaped convict," soliloquized Prince. "Poor fellow! And he's badly hurt. What is my duty in the case? He looks likely, and perhaps a mother, a sister is worrying about him. There isn't anything of the criminal in that face. Shall I protect him?"

The decision was quickly made. Prince proceeded across the farm, got to the house, made up a bundle and, hitching up a horse to the old family carryall, started back the route he had come.

"Mother and Zelda away," he soliloquized "and I don't see Zeph anywhere around. That just suits me."

Zeph Barnes was the handy man about the farm. At that moment he was making his way past the old shed. His coarse lips puckered as he discovered its inmate. He scented a mystery as he saw Prince returning. He wondered if there was any reward offered for the apprehension of convicts and, climbing to the shallow loft in the structure, waited for developments.

These materialized with the arrival of Prince. The latter proceeded to disrobe the stranger. He made a bundle of the incriminating convict garb and thrust it into an old manger, attired him in a suit of his own, lifted him into the wagon and drove to the house. He got his involuntary guest to bed, applied lotions to his wounds, and wondered what his story would be. When consciousness was restored, Alvin Prince gently inquired if the injuries were painful.

"I think only a stumbling fall," replied his guest. "Let me see, I was—Where was I? What was I doing? I'm all dazed. My name is Wilbur Thorne. I have a home, but I left it for wandering a long time ago. I've kept going with all kinds of jobs. You must be a pretty kind sort of a man to take in a stranger this way."

"Oh, that is all right," declared Prince lightly, and felt a certain delicacy about referring to his convict suspicions.

Mrs. Prince and her daughter Zelda came home two days later from a week's visit to a relative, to find the interesting-looking stranger insisting upon doing some light work about the farm. They were so used to the charitable impulses of the husband and father, that they did not question him when he told them that he was taking care of his visitor until he got on his feet again.

His frank, engaging ways won the favorable opinion of Zelda and her mother, and as the weeks drifted on Wilbur Thorne became so useful and so happy that Prince had not the heart to either question him or turn him away.

He had not noticed that a bond of mutual liking was being cemented between the two young people, but Zeph Barnes, himself secretly in love with Zelda, though the latter detested him, was witness to an interview between Thorne and herself when the latter confessed his deep affection for the farmer's daughter. Just before dusk that evening, just as the family were seated on the lawn, Mr. Prince reading, Mrs. Prince at her knitting and Zelda and Thorne looking over a pictorial magazine, there appeared Zeph Barnes and a man whom the farmer at once recognized as the town marshal.

"There's the man," spoke Zeph, pointing to Thorne. "He's an escaped convict, and here—" and he tore open a bundle under his arm, revealing the convict's garb in which Prince had first seen Thorne.

"Why you gave me a link in the past always a mystery to me," exclaimed Thorne abruptly, arising to his feet with an animated expression on his face. "I wore that suit the day I got hurt. Where did you ever get it, Zeph? You see, Mr. Prince, my last job was playing the convict for some movie people over beyond the village. I took a casual stroll in it while waiting for my part in the scenario, had a bad fall, and—and I guess you can tell how you found me."

Zeph drew back crestfallen. The marshal however, insisted on some close questioning, and Wilbur Thorne was forced to tell that he was the son of a wealthy man with whom he had quarreled to become a wanderer. A repentant truant, now that he had won Zelda's love he was willing to ask parental forgiveness, and a week later Alvin Prince was glad to accept Wilbur Thorne as his son-in-law.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Statistics pertaining to women engaged in business and the professions will be given more attention in the coming United States Census than in any similar enumeration in the past.

The National Woman's Party has started a drive to obtain ratification of the suffrage constitutional amendment in order to allow women all over the United States to vote in November.

During her stay in America Queen Elizabeth expects to visit some of the principal medical colleges and hospitals to obtain information that will aid her in her project to establish an institution for medical research in Belgium.

The native women of Morocco are very particular about the preservation of their complexions. They wash their faces in rose water in which apricot kernels baked and powdered are introduced. The apricot kernels are supposed to preserve the natural tint of the complexion.

CHINESE GIRL STUDENTS HAVE ICE CREAM AT MEETING

STUDENTS CALL NATION STRIKE

Form Patriotic Society—Close Shops and Banks to Gain Patriotic Demands.

GOVERNMENT ALLOWS POINTS

Miss Harriet Smith, Y. W. C. A. Student Secretary in China, Relates Amazing Story of How 20,000 Students Organized Themselves.

By BERNICE GRISWOLD.

Miss Harriet Smith, for ten years a student secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association in Shanghai, China, relates the amazing story of how 20,000 Chinese students organized themselves to oust the militarists from Government offices in Peking and how they succeeded in becoming the leaders of China.

Fearing that China was not to be protected from the aggression of other nations by the Peace Treaty, as she had expected to be, some 20,000 students, all of them between the ages of twelve and twenty-one years and including 8,000 girls organized themselves into the Chinese Students' Patriotic Society immediately after the publication of the first draft of the Peace Treaty to fight for Chinese rights.

Their first move was to strike from school or, rather, from lectures, as they remained in their respective schools and spent so many hours daily in private study. They then organized into bands for getting out propaganda literature and for public speaking in the country and small towns and in the tea shops in poorer districts of the cities in order that they might reach the vast numbers of people who could not read.

Immediately upon organizing, the students published their demands, four in number: (1) that the militarists, who as a party were pro-Japanese and practically controlled the Government at Peking, be put out of office; (2) that Shantung be returned to China; (3) that the twenty-one demands made by Japan in 1915 be cancelled; (4) that there be freedom of speech and of the press. They also insisted that the Chinese constitution be finished.

An immense amount of literature was put out, much of it in the new phonetic script which is being launched in China, so that the uneducated classes might learn what was happening. Students lectured everywhere on the demands, stirring the people to patriotism. When many of them were arrested while parading in the streets of Peking they formed an Association of Imprisoned Students within the prison and refused to be released, picketing the stockade themselves when Government guards were taken away, until the Government submitted a proper apology for having imprisoned them in the beginning.

When it became evident that economic pressure was all that would be effective both the bankers' and merchants' guilds were called upon to back the students. "In less than two hours," Miss Smith said, "the shutters were up at every shop in that great city of Shanghai, where telephones are few and communication difficult. Every shop, whether large or small, was closed. The laboring people, feeling as patriotic as the bankers, merchants and students, also joined the general strike. For a week everything was closed—shops, money exchanges, fish markets, shipping, everything. The students struggled to keep public utilities running. The telephone service was stopped for a short time, but the students soon had it running again. They held meetings day and night, trying to keep the railroad employees at their posts and explaining that it was patriotism for them and for water works and electric light employees to continue to work. At the end of that week the students had won the first point and the militarists were out of power."

MISS HARRIET SMITH
Of Chinese Y. W. C. A.

When suffrage in any form finally comes to China Miss Smith feels that it will be granted to both men and women because of the way women are helping to build things up now. Women students took an active part in all of this bloodless revolution. They had their places on all of the councils. Their part of the work was to translate much of the literature into phonetic script and when a boycott was declared on Japanese goods to begin production of goods in China.

"All of the students threw away their straw hats—purely Japanese products—at the beginning of their movement, and the women students set about making white duck hats, which were called patriotic hats and immediately became very popular. Then they began devoting themselves to the making of parasols and of talcum powder. Some of them paraded, but none was arrested.

"China is the last country in the world to fear class feeling and antipathy, which seems to be gripping the rest of the world," Miss Smith says. "In China there is a wonderful social solidarity. People get together, not so much by localities, but by trades and professions. Every one belongs to a guild, and these guilds are wonderfully organized, as the Chinese have a genius for organization. Despite poor lines of communication, lack of railroads and telephones, these guilds hold closely together. Yet their organization has nothing to do with caste.

"With a leadership so highly organized as that of the students a great amount can be done. Leading men of China interpret the student movement as very significant—the forming of a new national party. It is the duty of all Christian organizations in China to give these students, who are now the leaders of the Government, every possible bit of aid and inspiration, as they need more than human help to bring China out of her difficulties successfully. The Y. W. C. A. is doing what it can to help the women students. All of these students have given up their vacations and are working hard throughout the summer."

Miss Smith has seen China change, within ten years, from one of the oldest and most rigid monarchies of the world into a republic. She saw the first republican flags go up and feels that China has accomplished a great deal, fighting all the time as she has, against the great odds of Japanese and European aggression in addition to the old monarchistic party. Given time, China will become one of the great republics of the world, she says.

Miss Smith lives in Richmond, Va., and is home on a year's furlough. She expects to return to China in the spring.

THIS COLUMN FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AND PARENTS

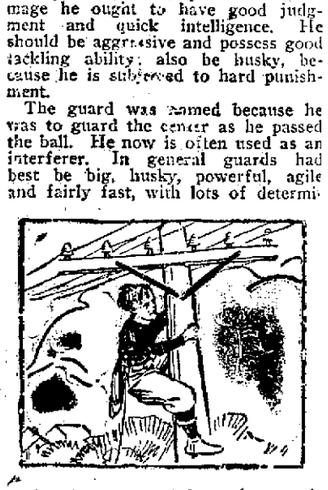
Requirements of the Linemen

By A. A. STAGG, Athletic Director
The University of Chicago

In football the linemen are the backbone of the team. They clear the way for the advance into the opponent's territory, as well as bear the heavy burden of fighting against the opponent's advances.

The most important player in the line is called the center because he is the one around whom the scrimmage forms. Inasmuch as the center usually starts all plays from scrimmage he ought to have good judgment and quick intelligence. He should be aggressive and possess good tackling ability; also be husky, because he is subjected to hard punishment.

The guard was named because he was to guard the center as he passed the ball. He now is often used as an interferer. In general guards had best be big, husky, powerful, agile and fairly fast, with lots of determination, because on defense they nearly always have two forwards against them.



The tackles were named distinctly for their work. They were expected to do the heavy work of the team at tackling and they still have that job. Upon the tackles the brunt of aggressive defensive work falls, first because their point in the line is the most attacked; second, because they are the nearest men to the play who have freedom of action for driving through into the opponent's territory. On offensive a large part of the running attack centers in the region of the tackle or over. The tackle should possess distinct tackling ability, quickness, shiftiness, good speed, aggressiveness and fighting ability, and the more weight you can get with these characteristics the better.

The characteristics of a first-class end are quick intelligence, good judgment, along with speed, shiftiness and cleverness, tackling ability and skill in handling forward passes. Since the end men are next the broad open side field, they must possess especially good judgment on the defense to make it just as hard as possible for the runner to invade that space either from scrimmage or in carrying back punts; also they must know how to prevent short forward passes from being made effective there.

"Stand Tall"

By LOUISE FREER

"Straighten up; don't slouch," had been our constant entreaties to my niece Margaret. Her mother, her dad, and I, tried all last summer to convince her of the importance of erect carriage, until we felt that our persistence approached "nagging." Margaret had listened patiently, however, and had cheerfully agreed with us. Her effort would last a few minutes, then her chest would go flat and shoulders droop.

During the second week of school Margaret was unusually quiet and thoughtful at dinner one evening. Not until we finished did she relieve her mind. "Our new 'gym' teacher told us today that we must stand tall. She said that when we let the chest sink, the shoulders drop and stomach come forward, the organs in the trunk of the said that, when we let the chest sink, body are affected. They don't have as much space to work in when they are pressed together. She says our circulation is not so good and our digestion gets upset.

"She showed us how easy it is to be straight," continued Margaret enthusiastically. "You stand with your weight forward on the balls of your feet, bring your chest as high as you can without lifting your shoulders or feeling any strain. Then make yourself as tall as you can. It is so easy and natural," exclaimed Margaret, standing straight as an arrow. When we walk we have the same position of the body, remembering to keep the feet pointed straight forward.

"And, Dad (noting her father's comfortable slump in his favorite chair) this is the way to sit: sit as far back in the chair as possible so that the back of the chair supports your entire back.

"Miss Gray gave our class a test today and I got only 'C'. We have another test in two weeks and I am going to work my hardest to get 'A'."

It has been nearly a year now since Margaret began trying to sit, stand and walk correctly. She is a different looking girl. Her erect carriage bespeaks poise and confidence. Her Uncle Jim, who had not seen her for a year, visited us not long ago. He exclaimed on greeting Margaret, "Well, little Peggy, you've grown into a good looking girl."

"It is just because I know how to stand tall, Uncle Jim," laughed Margaret.

PURE SORGHUM SEED BY ROGUEING PLATS

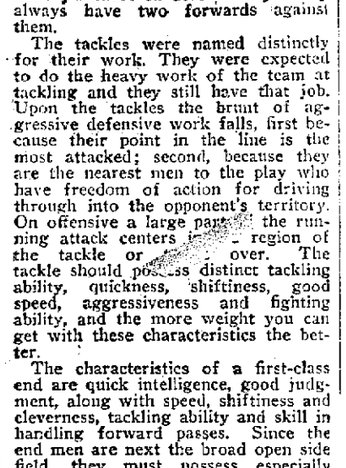
Go Over Field and Carefully Remove Off-Type Plants.

Work Can Be Done Easily by Man on Foot With Dwarf Varieties, While With Taller Sorts It Is Practical to Use Horse.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In order to obtain pure sorghum seed it is usually necessary to go over the field carefully after it has headed out and remove the rogues or off-type plants. Every plant which does not conform to the type which is desired should be cut down, or, better, pulled up so that there will be no danger of the production of seed from tillers produced by the rogue.

In dwarf varieties the rogueing can be done easily by a man on foot, but in the taller growing sorts it is most practical to ride through the field on horseback so that the workers can see over the top of the field and thus more readily determine the position of the rogues which must be removed. The horse can be securely muzzled to prevent injury other than that occasioned by the tramping down of plants.



Superior Sorghum Field.

It is not profitable to rogue fields which are intended for the production of grain or forage, but in the producing of seed, either for home planting or the market, careful rougeing gives returns both in dollars and cents and in the satisfaction of growing pure seed. Sorghums being open-pollinated are subject to almost endless hybridization if stray plants of other varieties are allowed to mature in the field. This intermixing of varieties results in lack of uniformity in ripening as well as in the size of the plants, thus causing difficulty in harvesting and marketing the crop. The use of pure seed varieties which are known to be adapted to the farmers' climatic conditions will be rewarded in bigger and better crops.

EXAMINE LAND FOR ALFALFA

Frequent Borings Should Be Made With Auger to Determine Character of the Soil.

In examining a tract of land for alfalfa frequent borings should be made with a soil auger to determine the character of the soil and subsoil as well as the drainage conditions. This instrument usually will be of greater value in determining the adaptability of a particular tract to alfalfa than a chemical analysis of the soil. A common 1¼-inch auger with the shank lengthened and a suitable crossbar for a handle is practical for this use.

An effort to prohibit the use of tobacco will give new and serious significance to the old comic opera song, "A Policeman's Lot Is Not a Happy One."

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

Said An Owner

What One Says is Voiced by All
"You Can Have Comfort, Performance and Endurance All at a Moderate Cost"

About His Essex

Ten thousand owners, almost to a man, voice what you have heard of Essex performance and reliability.

Have you considered the weight of that endorsement in connection with the car you will choose?

Let us look at it this way:

Its Moderate Cost And Reliability

Consider the type of car that equals Essex performance. Some owners affirm their Essex is the fastest car they have encountered.

Certainly none ever thinks of a similar priced or like size car in connection with the speed of an Essex. Nor does anyone compare such a car with its acceleration or hill-climbing ability.

Isn't the comparison always with larger and higher priced cars?

And so also is Essex finish and completeness. There is nothing skimped or cheap about it either in appearance or in those parts that are not visible but which account for its reliability.

It Requires Little Attention

Though a light small car, the Essex calls for little attention. Its motor fulfills its work without constant attention. The car is so designed and constructed that it is practically free from annoying squeaks and such as may develop are usually and easily removed with a few drops of oil.

It is the car for the man who does his own driving and who, while he demands top notch performance, has neither the time nor temperament to be constantly tuning and adjusting it.

A Well Stocked Accessory Room

We have an accessory department that is stocked with everything that the motorist needs. There's a number of things that are distinct novelties and it will pay you to investigate.

That is a quality all owners admire and speak of.

Big Car Luxury Small Car Cost

And in this sense luxury means more than mere beauty and detail finish. It includes comfort to drive, freedom from mechanical annoyance, or performance limitations. It means a car one can be proud of—one that because of what it can do, commands respect from every motorist. Essex owners have no fear from the dust of other cars. If they are so minded they can lead the procession in any group. That they will tell you if you will but ask about the Essex.

Without Extra Operating Cost

Other cars are as economical to operate as the Essex, but ask yourself if they are as satisfactory in other ways as they are good to look at or ride in.

Can they go as fast or as quietly? Do they appeal to you as the Essex does in these details of performance and reliability?

Essex owners know the difference. We want you to know it by riding with us in an Essex.

It is the light weight car which thousands have adopted in place of heavier, more costly cars.

They get in the Essex the quality they demand. They obtain a performance akin to what they have had from their larger cars at much less expense, and they have no concern about reliability.

All these are reasons you must have considered. Can you answer them without knowing the Essex?

Home of the Hudson and Davis

We are not only distributors for the ESSEX but also for the Hudson and Davis cars. These cars are becoming more and more popular every day with discriminating drivers.

Baltimore Fighter Had More Respect For Facial Beauty Than Glory of Victory

FANS PLEASED WITH MATCH

Last night's boxing show at the park was the real thing and the devotees of the art Fistiana, who packed the big Exposition building to the doors sure did get a run for their money and Manager McGowan and his assistants are to be congratuated upon the class of their show.

The crowd present was a typical American one and consisted of "the brewer the baker, the candle-stick maker", together with the doctor, the dentist, the lawyer, the barber, the clerk, the plain business man and last but by no means least the editor in several different varieties.

They were red-blooded sports all and appeared to enjoy every minute of the show, generously cheering the worthy performer regardless of who what or when.

There were several good preliminaries, including fun-provoking "battle royal," in which all the participants were local people. The star bout of the evening was between Johnny Wolgast, formerly of Uncle Sam's Navee, and Young McCoy, the Baltimore colored scrapper, who aspires to middleweight honors. Wolgast is a brother of former lightweight champion Ad Wolgast, and like his more famous brother carries "some punch" in either hand.

The men boxed at the middleweight limit, each reporting his weight at 150 pounds and they certainly put up some battle. They were called to the centre of the ring at 10 o'clock and after being instructed in the rules to prevail by Referee Bill Davis, were ordered to go to it. And at it they went with a vengeance. McCoy was the aggressor in the first round, the foxy ring veteran allowing the colored man to extend himself while feeling him out. McCoy landed a number of good blows in this session, about the very first one cutting a gash in Wolgast's lower lip, while several sold cracks found lodgment in the region of Johnny's bread basket.

McCoy returned to his corner at the sound of the gong for the end of the round very well pleased with himself His joy in his prowess was short lived however because the whole works took a decided reverse from the start of the second. As the men leaped to the centre of the ring at the sound of the bell Wolgast tore into his dusky opponent with whirlwind speed landing a succession of blows which soon had McCoy covering hard to protect himself. The entire force of Wolgast's 150 pounds of bone and muscle were behind each punch and the rapidity of the attack served to slow up McCoy very noticeably. This round was Wolgast all the way.

The third was a repetition of the second McCoy going to the mat from a right cross shortly after the round opened. Wolgast rushed McCoy into his corner and brought the spectators to their feet by the awful lacing with left and right he handed him. McCoy was pretty badly blown and the bell ending the round was a welcome sound.

The fourth round was also Wolgast all the way although McCoy made several game rallies and swapped punch for punch in a manner which demonstrated his gameness and boosted his stock considerably altho it was apparent what the end would be.

In the fifth session Wolgast cut loose with all the speed of one of Henry Ford's fastest Eagle boats and lashed his dusky opponent almost at will. His particular target thruout the battle was McCoy's mouth and he landed left and right smashes to that much-damaged point, seriously interfering with McCoy's dental work. Following a final furious onslaught McCoy sank into his chair at the end of the round and when the bell rang for the sixth was unable to continue the journey.

McCoy's manager then jumped into the ring and stated that his man had lost a couple of teeth and had two others badly damaged and causing him much pain and he did not feel like allowing him to continue, being willing to concede the bout to Wolgast and hostilities ended.

Both boys put up a clean scrap and Referee Davis had very little trouble.

Wolgast will be matched to meet either a Williamsport or Altoona battler at the Park Monday evening, October 27th.

McCoy is not satisfied with the result of last night's bout, and asked for a return match with Wolgast. He says he was not hurt at all, except that the loosened teeth in his mouth were not only very painful but were in such position that another blow on them might have caused him serious injury, and his manager and handlers advised ending the bout, as it was. Wolgast then agreed to meet McCoy here on the evening of Saturday, November 6th.

CLEAN SPORT

Clearfield sport fans were treated last night to a real old fashioned prize fight; one in which the principals were each eager to come off the winner. Both were professionals and both men had the ability to hit hard and stand hard hitting. The blows delivered by Wolgast landed properly and his opponent was disabled. Let it be said in favor of the sport fans of Clearfield that they did not insist that the fight go on and be made a bloody spectacle. McCoy was whipped, he acknowledged it by forfeiting the fight and fans were considerate of his bruised feelings.

A PRESIDENT'S DISABILITY UNDER THE CONSTITUTION

Following is the provision of the Constitution of the United States providing for the "Death, Resignation or Inability to Discharge the Powers and Duties" of a President:

ARTICLE II, SECTION 1. "In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and VicePresident, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected."

THE INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE

Perhaps there may be some good come out of the industrial conference now in session at Washington but the attitude in which the three groups—labor, capital and farmers—approach it does not hold out any promise. The conference has not been in session long enough to warm the chairs and already each group has tried every method of advancing their own group interest. Capital first took a firm stand against dealing with labor representatives not of or within the circle of the employees in any dispute. Labor tried to force a resolution through calling for an immedate adjustment of the steel strike. Again labor forced the attention of the conference to consideration of the Plumb plan. And the farmers, not to be outdone, made a demand for straight recognition of the farmer's services and better support of the principles vital to agriculture.

Everybody has an axe to grind, which when ground will be used on the other fellow's neck.

ELECTION CLOSE AT HAND

The short time intervening between party primaries and general election causes many people to lose sight of the fact that the general election is less than three weeks off. General interest has centered in the candidacy of Amos H. Rumberger for County Treasurer who at this time is making his first campaign for the office at the general election after having made three primary campaigns, and who his friends in all parties believe, will come off a handsome winner. Republicans are united in the candidacy of Mr. Rumberger. Notwithstandng, the fact that he was a contender for the party nomination on three different occasions there are no sore spots anywhere. Everybody recognizes in him one who takes defeat like a man and his conduct before and after the various campaigns has served to draw friends to him. The ranks of the Democratic party are hopelessly split and this will be more apparent the day after election. There is going to be no casting of pearls to the plum grabbers. Mr. Rumberger commands the respect of all citizens and the party hair line will be broken in the rush of votes in his square on the ballot column.

"I'LL SAY SO"

Those two funny fellows, Murray and Mack, in their latest musical gaiety "I'll Say So," wth its ping-pong girls, hockey girls, fishing maids, golf girls and the Palm Beach bathing beauties, is announced as the offering at the Driggs tonight. The classification of this piece has caused the newspaper critics throughout the country much thought and worry, inasmuch as it borders on light opera, tingles with farce comedy, is extremely spectacular and cleverly admits of many novel specialties. In offering this production the management evidenoly ntended to maintain the standard of former performances, and from all accounts they have certainly succeeded in their endeavors. "I'll Say So" is an elastic title which does not confine the members of the company to any particular walk in the dramatic highway, but allows them to wander off and change costumes, sing and dance, form stage pictures, illustrate fads of the day and assume disguises, all these and sessions exercising no perceptible influence upon the progress of the play. In brief, "I'll Say So," has no serious intent either in dialogue or music. The piece was constructed to amuse for an evening, reason not concomitant, but nonsenses. Murray and Mack are, of course, the leading fun-makers, and they have in their support the following well known musical comedy favorites: Lovey M. Grene, Albert Livingston, Harry West, Billy Adams, Vera La Della, Ada Ash, Helen Dunn and a large chorus. The entire scenic and electrical equipment is carried intact by the management, which enables them to offer a perfomance complete in every detail. Seats are now on sale.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look years younger! Use Grandmother's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at an drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge of soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Yesterday the final deal was closed by which Charles E. Patton sold the property on corner of Thompson and State streets to Fred Robinson. Consideration $4,000. It is more than likely that the owner will remodel the building before he moves into it and convert it into a comfortable dwelling house.

The little son which was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Humphrey one day last week and of which the parents were so proud, died yesterday. The remains will probably be interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Steve Myrisky, who sold his property on South Side some time ago, is removing to Cleveland with his family.

Tax Collector Thompson after an absence of nearly a year has resumed work at the grist mill. He has been a sufferer from rheumatism for a long time, but the painful twinges have let up on him somewhat much to his relief.

Charles E. Patton, who has been in town several days this week looking after his real estate interests, left for his home on the farm near Harrisburg yesterday evening. He contemplates offering for sale a number of lots from a plot of ground below the residence of Harry Fleming, near Naulton, in the near future. The plots of ground will be offered at a price within easy reach of the workingman, and on easy payments.

Harry Turney has purchased from Rueben G. Bilger, a house and lot situate on Seofield street, South Side, the purchaser agreeing to pay the sum of $1,500 for the same.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thurston at their home at Naulton, on Wednesday, a young daughter.

At the Caldwell mines, operated by Mr. Bigler, on the other side of the river from the Pee-Wee's nest, there was unloaded yesterday fifty new mine cars. The cars are of the latest improved pattern, and each when loaded full will hold 2,500 pounds of coal. This addition of new cars, added to the number already in use at the Caldwell mine, indicates a greater output of coal than heretofore came from under the hill.

Mr. Heck of Orbisonia Huntingdon county is visiting his daughter Mrs. William Daub on Ridge avenue.

Miss Hileman, who was operated on in the Clearfield hospital a week or so ago for chronic appendicitis is now at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Daub, on Ridge avenue. The operation was a successful one, and the young lady bids fair to recover her usual good and robust health.

Chairman Wrigley informed The Progress correspondent last evening that only about one-half of Curwensville's allotment for the Jewish relief fund had been pledged thus far, but that each committeeman was going to make an unusual effort within the next two or three days to bring the amount up to what has been asked of Curwensville to contribute, and he feels almost confident that by the end of the week he can report the amount in full.

The many friends of "Aunt Katie" Thompson will be grieved to learn that she is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Stevenson, on Cemetery Road Clearfield. She is the oldest lady resident of this town, and her illness will be watched with considerable anxiety by the entire population of this community with the hope that she may soon recover sufficiently to be able to return to her home relatives and friends in this town.

The 10 cent social held in the basement of the M. E. church on Tuesday evening was a profound success so far as the young folks having an enjoyable time was concerned. Ample refreshments were served at the closing hour to all who cared to partake of them.

Turn for a moment if you will from your own cozy family circle to these 300,000 starving ragged helpless Jewish children in Eastern Europe. Consider their lot. You will have to stretch your imagination to the breaking point—and even then you will not exaggerate the grim terrible facts. Think of it. Almost a million innocent children robbed of their birthright. Their childhood is awry. Peace to them is an utter stranger. For years thousands of them have wandered, refugees from contending armies. Other thousands are orphaned. None have had a full meal in five years.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

True enough, the farmer has profited by war prices. But to what extent? Well, he has been able to paint his house so it looks as well as the grocer's in town.

He has been able to buy an automobile as good as the plumber's. His family has been able to wear clothes as good as the other church folks.
In other words, the farmer for the first time has had a fair living wage for his labor, with a little return on the capitol he has invested in his farm and its equipment.
The farmer is not a profiteer, and THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will fight to prove his right to a fair profit for his labor and his products.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obstinate case of Piles in a Few Days.

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove this cause, but simply the formation.

The wonderful prescription known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles that even chronic cases, of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completley cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro on sale and it for you on short notice. Surely the small little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as "Bleeding piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared so in most cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backachy or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter o strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The momont you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, gt about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

SECRETARY LANSING WAS BEHIND MOVEMENT TO PROTECT AMERICA FROM "RED" INVASION

MUST PASS EXAM BEFORE COMING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—With government records showing that alien radicals are agitators of the strikes and disorders in all parts of the country the House today adopted over-whelmingly to continue for one year after completion of peace the war ban against the entrance into the United States of undesirable foreigners.

At the request of Secretary of State Lansing a bill was passed under which all aliens are required to submit their complete record and undergo a thorough examination by American Consuls before they are allowed to leave their native country for the United States. The foreigners must prove beyond all doubt that they are coming to the United States for legitimate purposes.

MAPPING COUNTY BY AIRPLANE SIMPLE TASK

Gas Company Has Aero Engineers Working in Western End of Gouuty

TO USE POWERFUL CAMERAS

Something new in the way of map making on the part of companies who desire accurate reproductions of lands and leases is now coming in to vogue as an indirect result of the war and the great stimulation given to aeronautics and photography. Walter M. Jakaway, aerial photographer, and Earl F. Beers, chief pilot, of the Rochester Aircraft corporation, of Rochester, N. Y., arrived in DuBois yesterday and at once began hauling their aeroplane to the aviation field. As the several loads passed along the main streets, much curiosity was expressed as to the purvose of the plane being shipped to DuBois. The two young men, with the aid of local mechanics, will assemble the plane and within a few days will began making aerial photographs. The photographs are being made for the Phillips Gas & Oil comvany, which holds a large number of leases in Clearfield and surrounding counties. There is a total of 625 square miles to be covered in the contract held by the aircraft company and a large part of the work will be done with DuBois as the central station. The aerial work will include photo-taking in Clearfield, Jecerson, Indiana and Cambria counties. Most of the work done in Clearfield and Jefferson counoies will be done with DuBois as headquarters, a the aviators have the use of a good field here.

It is claimed that by aerial photographs, which are taken at a height of 4,000 feet a most complete and accurate map of the country can be secured. In fact every detail is covered in a manner far superior to a hand-drawn map. The aeroplane travels in a serpentine trail over a certain area and at each exposure a strip of territory 1600 to 2000 feet is taken. These photographs overlap and when put together given an absolute perfect reproduction of the territory. That tney are accurate there is no question. It is even stated that should a man walk over his lawn after the dew had settled and a photograph was made before the dew had dried, that the man's tracks in the dew would be shown in the photograph.

The company has sent to DuBois a Curtis plane of the JN-4 type with a 90-horse power engine. The pilot, Mr. Beers, has been in the flying game for fifteen years and is rated as one of the best in the business. It is the intention of the men to do a passenger business between photographic flights, arrangements for which can be made as soon as the machine is assembled. Mr. Jakaway, the photographer is well acquainted with Phil Griesemer having been under him at the Rochester school during the war.

The taking of aerial photographs for the purpose of mapping territory has been carried on by one Rochester company for some little time and they have been meeting with good success.

MUSIC LOVERS HAD A TREAT LAST NIGHT

Mr. Ballard, the Noted Tenor, Pleased Large Audience With His Performance

EDISON MACHINE IS PERFECT

The music lovers of Clearfield who availed themselves of the invitation to attend the concert by George Ballard at the High School Auditorium last evening, will never forget the experience.

When Mr. Ballard announced that he would sing in unison with a RE-CREATION of his own voice, on the New Edison which stood upon the platform, we were skeptical. To attempt to match that lovely voice with a sound produced mechanically by a thing of steel and wood! It was preposterous.

When the first notes of the song came to our ears we were waiting breathlessly. And we continued breathless throughout the evening. At first Mr. Ballard's voice and the voice from the mahogany cabinet beside him came to us indistinguishably blended—the two voices so completely one that no ear could detect their duality. Suddenly we realized that Mr. Ballard's lips had ceased to move, though his voice went gloriously on! He sang again, and again stopped. Only by watching his lips could we tell whether his voice came to us from his throat, or from the magic box at his side. It was his voice in both cases—there was no question of that from the first. No mere echo or "record" could make us doubt the evidence of our own eyes. His voice was there, whether he sang or was silent. Equal in tone, in clearness and in beauty, it filled the room, literally RE-CREATED by some magic power for our bewilderment.

Music such as Mr. Edison has given to the world, is especially gratifying and inspiring and i tis interesting to know that several thousand New Edisons, especially encased in double field cabinets, were furnished to the boys in camp and "over there" without profit by Mr. Edison.

Expect Senate Vote On Shantung Tonight

Party Leaders Marshal Forces in Preparation For Test of Strength On Treaty Entire

JAPAN'S CLAIMS ARE DISPUTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Leaders of both parties in the Senate expect a vote this evening on the Shantung amendment to the Treaty of Peace This amendment would alter the treaty, and would change the clauses relating to Shantung so as to restore that province to China instead of giving Japan the German mining and railroad concessions in it.

SECRETARY WILSON HAS PLAN FOR SETTLEMENT OF MINERS' DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Hoping to avert the threatened coal strike by an agreement between the miners and the operators, Secretary of Labor Wilson today prepared a plan of settlement to be submitted to representatives of both sides.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—There will be an industrial panic throughout the United States unless the coal strike is averted November 1, government experts announced today.

Most of the country will feel the strike before a month is up and if cold weather sets in, two weeks will be the minimum time in which the public would feel the strike.

C. W. Lesher, government expert, estimated the present production at 11,000,000 to 11,500,000 tons during a week. There are on hand about 30,000,000. This probably would last a month. Coal held in reserve by the railroads is variously estimated. Figures submitted to the Senate recently showed a ten day's supply on hand. Other figures also given the Senate showed a month's supply.

Because of the unequal distribution of coal many sections of the country would be hit by the strike within a week.

LIEUT. MAYNARD, LEADER IN AERIAT AERBY, FINALLY FORCED TO LAND

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 16—Lieut.B. W. Maynard was forced down by a broken crank shaft, 4 miles west of Wahoo, Neb., according to reports received here today. Maynard was unhurt. Army trucks went to his assistance.

LINCOLN, Neb, Oct. 16—Lieut. B. Maynard, leader of the trans-continental aerial derby left here at 7:15 for Mineola. Maynard made three miles a minute in his flight between Cheynne and Lincoln. He hoped to reach his goal Friday night.

PRESIDENT CONTINUES BETTER AND IS NOT SUBJECT TO AS MUCH PAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—A statement issued by President Wilson's physician at 11:55 a m. today said "the discomfort which the President has suffered during the past two days has been relieved to a very great extent. He had a good night. His temperature, pulse, and respiration continued normal."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—President Wilson was better this morning, it was stated at the White House. A cabinet meeting will be called today, Secretary Tumulty said, to consider the sugar shortage and the impending coal miner's strike. The sugar shortage was referred to Secretary of Agriculture Houston and the miner's strike to Secretary of Labor Wilson.

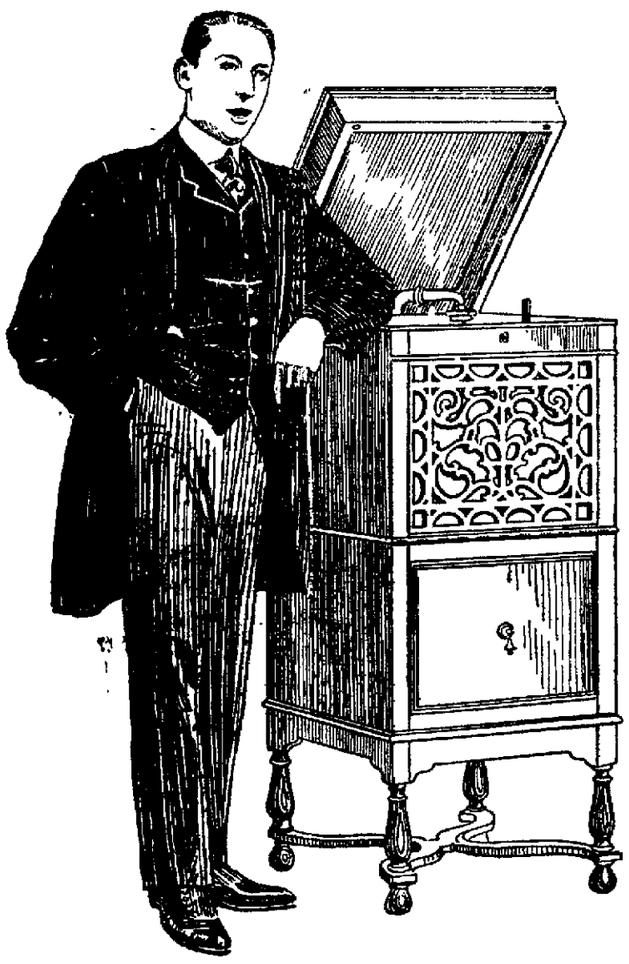
---and no one could tell the difference



Last night's audience mystified

Tries vainly to detect difference between voice of famous tenor and RE-CREATION by Edison's new phonograph

Those present at The High School Auditorium last night saw George Wilton Ballard walk onto the stage. They saw him take his position next to a beautiful cabinet. They saw his lips give voice to the opening lines of Mother. Then suddenly his lips were still---but the songs kept flowing on.

How came this? They were hearing Mr. Ballard's voice, yet Mr. Ballard was not singing. The entire audience gasped as it slowly realized that it had been unable to distinguish between Mr. Ballard's voice and the RE-CREATION of that voice by the New Edison.

This was the daring test undertaken last night at the High School Auditorium by Thomas A. Edison. He sought to prove that no difference exists between the voice of the living artist and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. The musically cultured of Clearfield were invited to pass judgment. No test could have been more exacting.

Mr. Ballard made comparison after comparison. The mystified audience tried vainly to catch a difference between the original rendition and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one could tell one from the other.

It was a triumph whole and complete for the New Edison.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The instrument used in last night's Tone-Test is the regular model which sells for $285 (in Canada, $431.) It is an exact duplicate of the Laboratory Model which Mr. Edison perfected after spending Three Million Dollars in experiments.

The New Edison alone of all phonographs is capable of sustaining this test. Until Mr. Edison knew it would do so, he regarded his work as unfinished.

Ask some one who was present last night. Learn the amazing truth. Then come in and let us prove it personally to you.

In Dubious Garb

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Dear, dear!" mourned and pitied Alvin Prince, and stood looking down at a human form lying prone upon the straw-littered floor of an abandoned shelter shed at a remote corner of his farm.

He was a genial old soul, this pleasant-faced, kind-hearted deacon, selectman and the prop and stay of sterling uprightness and dignity in the community. He had been passing the shed, when he fancied that a groan proceeded from within. He stepped across the threshold and, startled and puzzled, gazed down at the recumbent figure. It was that of a young man with a refined cast of features, his eyes closed in sleep. Two further discoveries of the farmer brought a serious expression to his face. One hand was abrased and bleeding, and a cut in the head showed a second recent injury.

"A convict—an escaped convict," soliloquized Prince. "Poor fellow! And he's badly hurt. What is my duty in the case? He looks likely, and perhaps a mother, a sister is worrying about him. There isn't anything of the criminal in that face. Shall I protect him?"

The decision was quickly made. Prince proceeded across the farm, got to the house, made up a bundle and, hitching up a horse to the old family carryall, started back the route he had come.

"Mother and Zelda away," he soliloquized "and I don't see Zeph anywhere around. That just suits me."

Zeph Barnes was the handy man about the farm. At that moment he was making his way past the old shed. His coarse lips puckered as he discovered its inmate. He scented a mystery as he saw Prince returning. He wondered if there was any reward offered for the apprehension of convicts and, climbing to the shallow loft in the structure, waited for developments.

These materialized with the arrival of Prince. The latter proceeded to disrobe the stranger. He made a bundle of the incriminating convict garb and thrust it into an old manger, attired him in a suit of his own, lifted him into the wagon and drove to the house. He got his involuntary guest to bed, applied lotions to his wounds, and wondered what his story would be. When consciousness was restored, Alvin Prince gently inquired if the injuries were painful.

"I think only a stumbling fall," replied his guest. "Let me see, I was—Where was I? What was I doing? I'm all dazed. My name is Wilbur Thorne. I have a home, but I left it for wandering a long time ago. I've kept going with all kinds of jobs. You must be a pretty kind sort of a man to take in a stranger this way."

"Oh, that is all right," declared Prince lightly, and felt a certain delicacy about referring to his convict suspicions.

Mrs. Prince and her daughter Zelda came home two days later from a week's visit to a relative, to find the interesting-looking stranger insisting upon doing some light work about the farm. They were so used to the charitable impulses of the husband and father, that they did not question him when he told them that he was taking care of his visitor until he got on his feet again.

His frank, engaging ways won the favorable opinion of Zelda and her mother, and as the weeks drifted on Wilbur Thorne became so useful and so happy that Prince had not the heart to either question him or turn him away.

He had not noticed that a bond of mutual liking was being cemented between the two young people, but Zeph Barnes, himself secretly in love with Zelda, though the latter detested him, was witness to an interview between Thorne and herself when the latter confessed his deep affection for the farmer's daughter. Just before dusk that evening, just as the family were seated on the lawn, Mr. Prince reading, Mrs. Prince at her knitting and Zelda and Thorne looking over a pictorial magazine, there appeared Zeph Barnes and a man whom the farmer at once recognized as the town marshal.

"There's the man," spoke Zeph, pointing to Thorne. "He's an escaped convict, and here—" and he tore open a bundle under his arm, revealing the convict's garb in which Prince had first seen Thorne.

"Why, you gave me a link in the past always a mystery to me," exclaimed Thorne abruptly, arising to his feet with an animated expression on his face. "I wore that suit the day I got hurt. Where did you ever get it, Zeph? You see, Mr. Prince, my last job was playing the convict for some movie people over beyond the village. I took a casual stroll in it while waiting for my part in the scenario, had a bad fall, and—and I guess you can tell how you found me."

Zeph drew back crestfallen. The marshal however, insisted on some close questioning, and Wilbur Thorne was forced to tell that he was the son of a wealthy man with whom he had quarreled to become a wanderer. A repentant truant, now that he had won Zelda's love he was willing to ask parental forgiveness, and a week later Alvin Prince was glad to accept Wilbur Thorne as his son-in-law.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Statistics pertaining to women engaged in business and the professions will be given more attention in the coming United States Census than in any similar enumeration in the past.

The National Woman's Party has started a drive to obtain ratification of the suffrage constitutional amendment in order to allow women all over the United States to vote in November.

During her stay in America Queen Elizabeth expects to visit some of the principal medical colleges and hospitals to obtain information that will aid her in her project to establish an institution for medical research in Belgium.

CHINESE GIRL STUDENTS HAVE ICE CREAM AT MEETING

STUDENTS CALL NATION STRIKE

Form Patriotic Society—Close Shops and Banks to Gain Patriotic Demands.

GOVERNMENT ALLOWS POINTS

Miss Harriet Smith, Y. W. C. A. Student Secretary in China, Relates Amazing Story of How 20,000 Students Organized Themselves.

By BERNICE GRISWOLD.

Miss Harriet Smith, for ten years a student secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association in Shanghai, China, relates the amazing story of how 20,000 Chinese students organized themselves to oust the militarists from Government offices in Peking and how they succeeded in becoming the leaders of China.

Fearing that China was not to be protected from the aggression of other nations by the Peace Treaty, as she had expected to be, some 20,000 students, all of them between the ages of twelve and twenty-one years and including 8,000 girls organized themselves into the Chinese Students' Patriotic Society immediately after the publication of the first draft of the Peace Treaty to fight for Chinese rights.

Their first move was to strike from school or, rather, from lectures, as they remained in their respective schools and spent so many hours daily in private study. They then organized into bands for getting out propaganda literature and for public speaking in the country and small towns and in the tea shops in poorer districts of the cities in order that they might reach the vast numbers of people who could not read.

Immediately upon organizing, the students published their demands, four in number: (1) that the militarists, who as a party were pro-Japanese and practically controlled the Government at Peking, be put out of office; (2) that Shantung be returned to China; (3) that the twenty-one demands made by Japan in 1915 be cancelled; (4) that there be freedom of speech and of the press. They also insisted that the Chinese constitution be finished.

An immense amount of literature was put out, much of it in the new phonetic script which is being launched in China, so that the uneducated classes might learn what was happening. Students lectured everywhere on the demands, stirring the people to patriotism. When many of them were arrested while parading in the streets of Peking they formed an Association of Imprisoned Students within the prison and refused to be released, picketing the stockade themselves when Government guards were taken away, until the Government submitted a proper apology for having imprisoned them in the beginning.

When it became evident that economic pressure was all that would be effective both the bankers' and merchants' guilds were called upon to back the students. "In less than two hours," Miss Smith said, "the shutters were up at every shop in that great city of Shanghai, where telephones are few and communication difficult. Every shop, whether large or small, was closed. The laboring people, feeling as patriotic as the bankers, merchants and students, also joined the general strike. For a week everything was closed—shops, money exchanges, fish markets, shipping, everything. The students struggled to keep public utilities running. The telephone service was stopped for a short time, but the students soon had it running again. They held meetings day and night, trying to keep the railroad employees at their posts and explaining that it was patriotism for them and for water works and electric light employees to continue to work. At the end of that week the students had won the first point and the militarists were out of power."

MISS HARRIET SMITH
Of Chinese Y. W. C. A.

When suffrage in any form finally comes to China Miss Smith feels that it will be granted to both men and women because of the way women are helping to build things up now. Women students took an active part in all of this bloodless revolution. They had their places on all of the councils. Their part of the work was to translate much of the literature into phonetic script and when a boycott was declared on Japanese goods to begin production of goods in China.

"All of the students threw away their straw hats—purely Japanese products—at the beginning of their movement, and the women students set about making white duck hats, which were called patriotic hats and immediately became very popular. Then they began devoting themselves to the making of parasols and of talcum powder. Some of them paraded, but none was arrested.

"China is the last country in the world to fear class feeling and antipathy, which seems to be gripping the rest of the world," Miss Smith says. "In China there is a wonderful social solidarity. People get together, not so much by localities, but by trades and professions. Every one belongs to a guild, and these guilds are wonderfully organized, as the Chinese have a genius for organization. Despite poor lines of communication, lack of railroads and telephones, these guilds hold closely together. Yet their organization has nothing to do with caste.

"With a leadership so highly organized as that of the students a great amount can be done. Leading men of China interpret the student movement as very significant—the forming of a new national party. It is the duty of all Christian organizations in China to give these students, who are now the leaders of the Government, every possible bit of aid and inspiration, as they need more than human help to bring China out of her difficulties successfully. The Y. W. C. A. is doing what it can to help the women students. All of these students have given up their vacations and are working hard throughout the summer."

Miss Smith has seen China change, within ten years, from one of the oldest and most rigid monarchies of the world into a republic. She saw the first republican flags go up and feels that China has accomplished a great deal, fighting all the time as she has, against the great odds of Japanese and European aggression in addition to the old monarchistic party. Given time, China will become one of the great republics of the world, she says.

Miss Smith lives in Richmond, Va., and is home on a year's furlough. She expects to return to China in the spring.

THIS COLUMN FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AND PARENTS

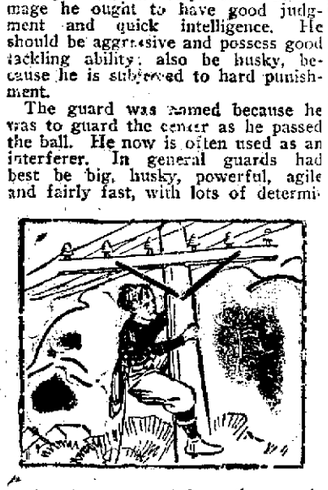
Requirements of the Linemen

By A. A. STAGG, Athletic Director
The University of Chicago

In football the linemen are the backbone of the team. They clear the way for the advance into the opponent's territory, as well as bear the heavy burden of fighting against the opponent's advances.

The most important player in the line is called the center because he is the one around whom the scrimmage forms. Inasmuch as the center usually starts all plays from scrimmage he ought to have good judgment and quick intelligence. He should be aggressive and possess good tackling ability; also be husky, because he is subjected to hard punishment.

The guard was named because he was to guard the center as he passed the ball. He now is often used as an interferer. In general guards had best be big, husky, powerful, agile and fairly fast, with lots of determination, because on defense they nearly always have two forwards against them.



The tackles were named distinctly for their work. They were expected to do the heavy work of the team at tackling and they still have that job. Upon the tackles the brunt of aggressive defensive work falls, first because their point in the line is the most attacked; second, because they are the nearest men to the play who have freedom of action for driving through into the opponent's territory. On offensive a large part of the running attack centers in the region of the tackle or over. The tackle should possess distinct tackling ability, quickness, shiftiness, good speed, aggressiveness and fighting ability, and the more weight you can get with these characteristics the better.

The characteristics of a first-class end are quick intelligence, good judgment, along with speed, shiftiness and cleverness, tackling ability and skill in handling forward passes. Since the end men are next the broad open side field, they must possess especially good judgment on the defense to make it just as hard as possible for the runner to invade that space either from scrimmage or in carrying back punts; also they must know how to prevent short forward passes from being made effective there.

"Stand Tall"

By LOUISE FREER

"Straighten up; don't slouch," had been our constant entreaties to my niece Margaret. Her mother, her dad, and I, tried all last summer to convince her of the importance of erect carriage, until we felt that our persistence approached "nagging." Margaret had listened patiently, however, and had cheerfully agreed with us. Her effort would last a few minutes, then her chest would go flat and shoulders droop.

During the second week of school Margaret was unusually quiet and thoughtful at dinner one evening. Not until we finished did she relieve her mind. "Our new 'gym' teacher told us today that we must stand tall. She said that when we let the chest sink, the shoulders drop and stomach come forward, the organs in the trunk of the said that, when we let the chest sink, body are affected. They don't have as much space to work in when they are pressed together. She says our circulation is not so good and our digestion gets upset.

"She showed us how easy it is to be straight," continued Margaret enthusiastically. "You stand with your weight forward on the balls of your feet, bring your chest as high as you can without lifting your shoulders or feeling any strain. Then make yourself as tall as you can. It is so easy and natural," exclaimed Margaret, standing straight as an arrow. When we walk we have the same position of the body, remembering to keep the feet pointed straight forward.

"And, Dad (noting her father's comfortable slump in his favorite chair) this is the way to sit: sit as far back in the chair as possible so that the back of the chair supports your entire back.

"Miss Gray gave our class a test today and I got only 'C'. We have another test in two weeks and I am going to work my hardest to get 'A'."

It has been nearly a year now since Margaret began trying to sit, stand and walk correctly. She is a different looking girl. Her erect carriage bespeaks poise and confidence. Her Uncle Jim, who had not seen her for a year, visited us not long ago. He exclaimed on greeting Margaret, "Well, little Peggy, you've grown into a good looking girl."

"It is just because I know how to stand tall, Uncle Jim," laughed Margaret.

PURE SORGHUM SEED BY ROGUEING PLATS

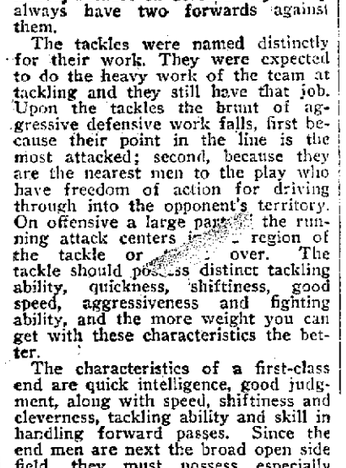
Go Over Field and Carefully Remove Off-Type Plants.

Work Can Be Done Easily by Man on Foot With Dwarf Varieties, While With Taller Sorts It Is Practical to Use Horse.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In order to obtain pure sorghum seed it is usually necessary to go over the field carefully after it has headed out and remove the rogues or off-type plants. Every plant which does not conform to the type which is desired should be cut down, or, better, pulled up so that there will be no danger of the production of seed from tillers produced by the rogue.

In dwarf varieties the rogueing can be done easily by a man on foot, but in the taller growing sorts it is most practical to ride through the field on horseback so that the workers can see over the top of the field and thus more readily determine the position of the rogues which must be removed. The horse can be securely muzzled to prevent injury other than that occasioned by the tramping down of plants.



Superior Sorghum Field.

It is not profitable to rogue fields which are intended for the production of grain or forage, but in the producing of seed, either for home planting or the market, careful rougeing gives returns both in dollars and cents and in the satisfaction of growing pure seed. Sorghums being open-pollinated are subject to almost endless hybridization if stray plants of other varieties are allowed to mature in the field. This intermixing of varieties results in lack of uniformity in ripening as well as in the size of the plants, thus causing difficulty in harvesting and marketing the crop. The use of pure seed varieties which are known to be adapted to the farmers' climatic conditions will be rewarded in bigger and better crops.

EXAMINE LAND FOR ALFALFA

Frequent Borings Should Be Made With Auger to Determine Character of the Soil.

In examining a tract of land for alfalfa frequent borings should be made with a soil auger to determine the character of the soil and subsoil as well as the drainage conditions. This instrument usually will be of greater value in determining the adaptability of a particular tract to alfalfa than a chemical analysis of the soil. A common 1¼-inch auger with the shank lengthened and a suitable crossbar for a handle is practical for this use.

An effort to prohibit the use of tobacco will give new and serious significance to the old comic opera song, "A Policeman's Lot Is Not a Happy One."

ESSEX MOTOR CARS

Said An Owner

What One Says is Voiced by All
"You Can Have Comfort, Performance and Endurance All at a Moderate Cost"

About His Essex

Ten thousand owners, almost to a man, voice what you have heard of Essex performance and reliability.

Have you considered the weight of that endorsement in connection with the car you will choose?

Let us look at it this way:

Its Moderate Cost And Reliability

Consider the type of car that equals Essex performance. Some owners affirm their Essex is the fastest car they have encountered.

Certainly none ever thinks of a similar priced or like size car in connection with the speed of an Essex. Nor does anyone compare such a car with its acceleration or hill-climbing ability.

Isn't the comparison always with larger and higher priced cars?

And so also is Essex finish and completeness. There is nothing skimped or cheap about it either in appearance or in those parts that are not visible but which account for its reliability.

It Requires Little Attention

Though a light small car, the Essex calls for little attention. Its motor fulfills its work without constant attention. The car is so designed and constructed that it is practically free from annoying squeaks and such as may develop are usually and easily removed with a few drops of oil.

It is the car for the man who does his own driving and who, while he demands top notch performance, has neither the time nor temperament to be constantly tuning and adjusting it.

A Well Stocked Accessory Room

We have an accessory department that is stocked with everything that the motorist needs. There's a number of things that are distinct novelties and it will pay you to investigate.

That is a quality all owners admire and speak of.

Big Car Luxury Small Car Cost

And in this sense luxury means more than mere beauty and detail finish. It includes comfort to drive, freedom from mechanical annoyance, or performance limitations. It means a car one can be proud of—one that because of what it can do, commands respect from every motorist. Essex owners have no fear from the dust of other cars. If they are so minded they can lead the procession in any group. That they will tell you if you will but ask about the Essex.

Without Extra Operating Cost

Other cars are as economical to operate as the Essex, but ask yourself if they are as satisfactory in other ways as they are good to look at or ride in.

Can they go as fast or as quietly? Do they appeal to you as the Essex does in these details of performance and reliability?

Essex owners know the difference. We want you to know it by riding with us in an Essex.

It is the light weight car which thousands have adopted in place of heavier, more costly cars.

They get in the Essex the quality they demand. They obtain a performance akin to what they have had from their larger cars at much less expense, and they have no concern about reliability.

All these are reasons you must have considered. Can you answer them without knowing the Essex?

Home of the Hudson and Davis

We are not only distributors for the ESSEX but also for the Hudson and Davis cars. These cars are becoming more and more popular every day with discriminating drivers.

M'COY FORCED TO FORFEIT IN FIFTH

Baltimore Fighter Had More Respect For Facial Beauty Than Glory of Victory

FANS PLEASED WITH MATCH

Last night's boxing show at the park was the real thing and the devotees of the art Fistiana, who packed the big Exposition building to the doors sure did get a run for their money and Manager McGowan and his assistants are to be congratuated upon the class of their show.

The crowd present was a typical American one and consisted of "the brewer the baker, the candle-stick maker", together with the doctor, the dentist, the lawyer, the barber, the clerk, the plain business man and last but by no means least the editor in several different varieties.

They were red-blooded sports all and appeared to enjoy every minute of the show, generously cheering the worthy performer regardless of who what or when.

There were several good preliminaries, including fun-provoking "battle royal," in which all the participants were local people. The star bout of the evening was between Johnny Wolgast, formerly of Uncle Sam's Navee, and Young McCoy, the Baltimore colored scrapper, who aspires to middleweight honors. Wolgast is a brother of former lightweight champion Ad Wolgast, and like his more famous brother carries "some punch" in either hand.

The men boxed at the middleweight limit, each reporting his weight at 150 pounds and they certainly put up some battle. They were called to the centre of the ring at 10 o'clock and after being instructed in the rules to prevail by Referee Bill Davis, were ordered to go to it. And at it they went with a vengeance. McCoy was the aggressor in the first round, the foxy ring veteran allowing the colored man to extend himself while feeling him out. McCoy landed a number of good blows in this session, about the very first one cutting a gash in Wolgast's lower lip, while several sold cracks found lodgment in the region of Johnny's bread basket.

McCoy returned to his corner at the sound of the gong for the end of the round very well pleased with himself His joy in his prowess was short lived however because the whole works took a decided reverse from the start of the second. As the men leaped to the centre of the ring at the sound of the bell Wolgast tore into his dusky opponent with whirlwind speed landing a succession of blows which soon had McCoy covering hard to protect himself. The entire force of Wolgast's 150 pounds of bone and muscle were behind each punch and the rapidity of the attack served to slow up McCoy very noticeably. This round was Wolgast all the way.

The third was a repetition of the second McCoy going to the mat from a right cross shortly after the round opened. Wolgast rushed McCoy into his corner and brought the spectators to their feet by the awful lacing with left and right he handed him. McCoy was pretty badly blown and the bell ending the round was a welcome sound.

The fourth round was also Wolgast all the way although McCoy made several game rallies and swapped punch for punch in a manner which demonstrated his gameness and boosted his stock considerably altho it was apparent what the end would be.

In the fifth session Wolgast cut loose with all the speed of one of Henry Ford's fastest Eagle boats and lashed his dusky opponent almost at will. His particular target thruout the battle was McCoy's mouth and he landed left and right smashes to that much-damaged point, seriously interfering with McCoy's dental work. Following a final furious onslaught McCoy sank into his chair at the end of the round and when the bell rang for the sixth was unable to continue the journey.

McCoy's manager then jumped into the ring and stated that his man had lost a couple of teeth and had two others badly damaged and causing him much pain and he did not feel like allowing him to continue, being willing to concede the bout to Wolgast and hostilities ended.

Both boys put up a clean scrap and Referee Davis had very little trouble.

Wolgast will be matched to meet either a Williamsport or Altoona battler at the Park Monday evening, October 27th.

McCoy is not satisfied with the result of last night's bout, and asked for a return match with Wolgast. He says he was not hurt at all, except that the loosened teeth in his mouth were not only very painful but were in such position that another blow on them might have caused him serious injury, and his manager and handlers advised ending the bout, as it was. Wolgast then agreed to meet McCoy here on the evening of Saturday, November 6th.

CLEAN SPORT

Clearfield sport fans were treated last night to a real old fashioned prize fight; one in which the principals were each eager to come off the winner. Both were professionals and both men had the ability to hit hard and stand hard hitting. The blows delivered by Wolgast landed properly and his opponent was disabled. Let it be said in favor of the sport fans of Clearfield that they did not insist that the fight go on and be made a bloody spectacle. McCoy was whipped, he acknowledged it by forfeiting the fight and fans were considerate of his bruised feelings.

A PRESIDENT'S DISABILITY UNDER THE CONSTITUTION

Following is the provision of the Constitution of the United States providing for the "Death, Resignation or Inability to Discharge the Powers and Duties" of a President:

ARTICLE II, SECTION 1. "In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and VicePresident, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected."

THE INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE

Perhaps there may be some good come out of the industrial conference now in session at Washington but the attitude in which the three groups—labor, capital and farmers—approach it does not hold out any promise. The conference has not been in session long enough to warm the chairs and already each group has tried every method of advancing their own group interest. Capital first took a firm stand against dealing with labor representatives not of or within the circle of the employees in any dispute. Labor tried to force a resolution through calling for an immedate adjustment of the steel strike. Again labor forced the attention of the conference to consideration of the Plumb plan. And the farmers, not to be outdone, made a demand for straight recognition of the farmer's services and better support of the principles vital to agriculture.

Everybody has an axe to grind, which when ground will be used on the other fellow's neck.

ELECTION CLOSE AT HAND

The short time intervening between party primaries and general election causes many people to lose sight of the fact that the general election is less than three weeks off. General interest has centered in the candidacy of Amos H. Rumberger for County Treasurer who at this time is making his first campaign for the office at the general election after having made three primary campaigns, and who his friends in all parties believe, will come off a handsome winner. Republicans are united in the candidacy of Mr. Rumberger. Notwithstandng, the fact that he was a contender for the party nomination on three different occasions there are no sore spots anywhere. Everybody recognizes in him one who takes defeat like a man and his conduct before and after the various campaigns has served to draw friends to him. The ranks of the Democratic party are hopelessly split and this will be more apparent the day after election. There is going to be no casting of pearls to the plum grabbers. Mr. Rumberger commands the respect of all citizens and the party hair line will be broken in the rush of votes in his square on the ballot column.

"I'LL SAY SO"

Those two funny fellows, Murray and Mack, in their latest musical gaiety "I'll Say So," wth its ping-pong girls, hockey girls, fishing maids, golf girls and the Palm Beach bathing beauties, is announced as the offering at the Driggs tonight. The classification of this piece has caused the newspaper critics throughout the country much thought and worry, inasmuch as it borders on light opera, tingles with farce comedy, is extremely spectacular and cleverly admits of many novel specialties. In offering this production the management evidenoly ntended to maintain the standard of former performances, and from all accounts they have certainly succeeded in their endeavors. "I'll Say So" is an elastic title which does not confine the members of the company to any particular walk in the dramatic highway, but allows them to wander off and change costumes, sing and dance, form stage pictures, illustrate fads of the day and assume disguises, all these and sessions exercising no perceptible influence upon the progress of the play. In brief, "I'll Say So," has no serious intent either in dialogue or music. The piece was constructed to amuse for an evening, reason not concomitant, but nonsenses. Murray and Mack are, of course, the leading fun-makers, and they have in their support the following well known musical comedy favorites: Lovey M. Grene, Albert Livingston, Harry West, Billy Adams, Vera La Della, Ada Ash, Helen Dunn and a large chorus. The entire scenic and electrical equipment is carried intact by the management, which enables them to offer a perfomance complete in every detail. Seats are now on sale.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look years younger! Use Grandmother's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at an drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge of soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Yesterday the final deal was closed by which Charles E. Patton sold the property on corner of Thompson and State streets to Fred Robinson. Consideration $4,000. It is more than likely that the owner will remodel the building before he moves into it and convert it into a comfortable dwelling house.

The little son which was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Humphrey one day last week and of which the parents were so proud, died yesterday. The remains will probably be interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Steve Myrisky, who sold his property on South Side some time ago, is removing to Cleveland with his family.

Tax Collector Thompson after an absence of nearly a year has resumed work at the grist mill. He has been a sufferer from rheumatism for a long time, but the painful twinges have let up on him somewhat much to his relief.

Charles E. Patton, who has been in town several days this week looking after his real estate interests, left for his home on the farm near Harrisburg yesterday evening. He contemplates offering for sale a number of lots from a plot of ground below the residence of Harry Fleming, near Naulton, in the near future. The plots of ground will be offered at a price within easy reach of the workingman, and on easy payments.

Harry Turney has purchased from Rueben G. Bilger, a house and lot situate on Seofield street, South Side, the purchaser agreeing to pay the sum of $1,500 for the same.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Clay Thurston at their home at Naulton, on Wednesday, a young daughter.

At the Caldwell mines, operated by Mr. Bigler, on the other side of the river from the Pee-Wee's nest, there was unloaded yesterday fifty new mine cars. The cars are of the latest improved pattern, and each when loaded full will hold 2,500 pounds of coal. This addition of new cars, added to the number already in use at the Caldwell mine, indicates a greater output of coal than heretofore came from under the hill.

Mr. Hock of Orbisonia Huntingdon county is visiting his daughter Mrs. William Daub on Ridge avenue.

Miss Hileman, who was operated on in the Clearfield hospital a week or so ago for chronic appendicitis is now at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Daub, on Ridge avenue. The operation was a successful one, and the young lady bids fair to recover her usual good and robust health.

Chairman Wrigley informed The Progress correspondent last evening that only about one-half of Curwensville's allotment for the Jewish relief fund had been pledged thus far, but that each committeeman was going to make an unusual effort within the next two or three days to bring the amount up to what has been asked of Curwensville to contribute, and he feels almost confident that by the end of the week he can report the amount in full.

The many friends of "Aunt Katie" Thompson will be grieved to learn that she is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Stevenson, on Cemetery Road Clearfield. She is the oldest lady resident of this town, and her illness will be watched with considerable anxiety by the entire population of this community with the hope that she may soon recover sufficiently to be able to return to her home relatives and friends in this town.

The 10 cent social held in the basement of the M. E. church on Tuesday evening was a profound success so far as the young folks having an enjoyable time was concerned. Ample refreshments were served at the closing hour to all who cared to partake of them.

Turn for a moment if you will from your own cozy family circle to these 300,000 starving ragged helpless Jewish children in Eastern Europe. Consider their lot. You will have to stretch your imagination to the breaking point—and even then you will not exaggerate the grim terrible facts. Think of it. Almost a million innocent children robbed of their birthright. Their childhood is awry. Peace to them is an utter stranger. For years thousands of them have wandered, refugees from contending armies. Other thousands are orphaned. None have had a full meal in five years.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

True enough, the farmer has profited by war prices. But to what extent? Well, he has been able to paint his house so it looks as well as the grocer's in town.

He has been able to buy an automobile as good as the plumber's. His family has been able to wear clothes as good as the other church folks.
In other words, the farmer for the first time has had a fair living wage for his labor, with a little return on the capitol he has invested in his farm and its equipment.
The farmer is not a profiteer, and THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN will fight to prove his right to a fair profit for his labor and his products.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obstinate case of Piles in a Few Days.

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove this cause, but simply the formation.

The wonderful prescription known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles that even chronic cases, of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completley cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro on sale and it for you on short notice. Surely the small little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as "Bleeding piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared so in most cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backachy or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter o strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The momont you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, gt about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.
